LIVE CATTLE, AUGUST 2018 CONTRACT

Contract: August 2018
Exchange: GLOBEX
Symbol: LCQ18
Expiration Date: 31/08/2018
Notice Date: 06/08/2018
Multiplier: 400

The last Update was clearly a buy opportunity, right on that day, because I said: “we are seeing a Low in the first days of April, and now we should see an imminent up push, this is what the forecast says! The Low should be imminent”. The chart is self explanatory!

LIVE CATTLE FORECAST & STRATEGY STUDY

I said that the up push had to last until May. We had the opportunity to make very good profits closing the position in May, even if you waited a bit before to do that. You had two clear reasons to close the position at the beginning of May, in area 106-107.500 (at the top of the up push):

- The Andrew's Pitchfork that I drew in the last Update
- The PFS (the forecast model in the 2018 Live Cattle Bulletin), suggesting a top around May 2.

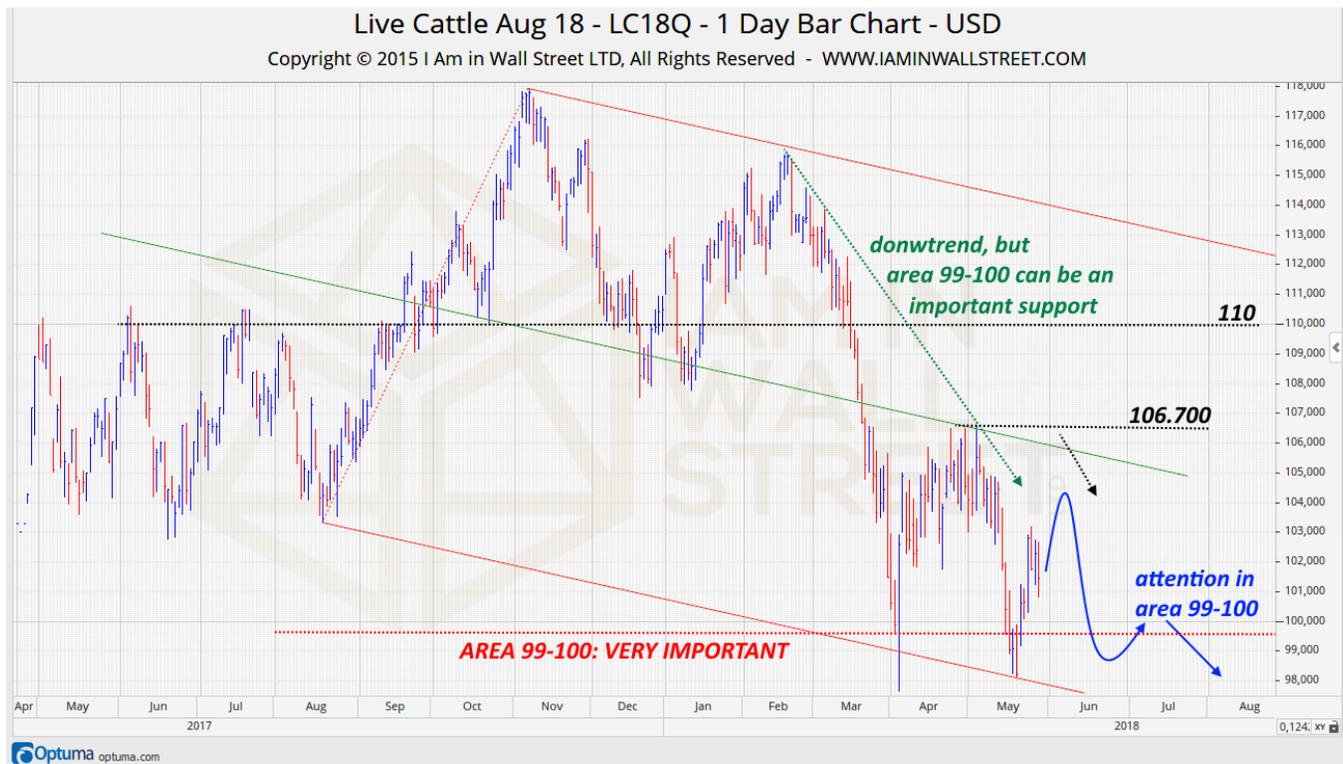

I do not know if you have opened SHORT positions after May 2, following the forecast model. If you did it, good for you, because you should have a profit now (not a big one, but still a profit). We did open the SHORT position with our Daily Report Strategy.

We now have to move to the August 2018 Contract. As I said in the 2018 Live Cattle Bulletin, the situation during the summer is not very clear. We are mainly expecting to see a Low in the summer, but this is a big time window for a Market that can move strongly in a few days. Let's try to be more precise and give some trading opportunities.

From the first days of June, we should see the beginning of a new down push. It should start around June 4-8. I would personally close the SHORT positions, wait for a little up movement in the first days of June, and then re-open a SHORT position from higher levels (if Live Cattle moves actually up in the first days of June, the forecast should be confirmed). From the beginning of June, we should see weakness, and at this point, I would take some important profits around June 20. After the last 10 days of June, we have to monitor if Live Cattle is still in a weak or strong position, because I have doubts about it, right now. To help ourselves, we look at the price map; there is the chance to see LC continuing the down movement, but we will only under important levels.

LIVE CATTLE FORECAST & STRATEGY STUDY

Let's have a look at the strategy paying attention to the price map:

As I said, we can take some profits now, and re-open the SHORT position in June, next week, in case we see higher levels. In this case, I would use stops above 106.700. If Live Cattle remains low, I would wait for a movement under area 99-100 to open SHORT positions, and be always SHORT under it with STOPS above it. This area is very significant.

If we see a consolidation under area 99-100, we let the SHORT position to run, taking some profits around June 20, as I said. Area 95.500 can be a support area, but it would be great to see area 88-90.

If Live Cattle struggle consolidating or moving under area 99-100, I would be careful in opening SHORT positions. This is what I meant when I said that we have to understand if LC is in a weak or strong position: above it, it is strong; under it, it is weak. Waiting for a confirmation can be the wisest choice we can take.

If we see higher levels, we have, still, a significant level at 110, and we can use it to trade with the right timing suggested in this Report.

I know, it is not very clear; I have doubts for the summer, but I think I have explained what I am expecting to see. If you have any question, you can contact me, any time.
