Hi Traders,

This is just a super quick Update for the S&P500; my studies suggest the date of September 19-24 as very important, and it may be a significant High. I am personally working with SHORT positions, using mainly the Key Level at 3020 FP as a reference point to keep always the SHORT position under it with always a STOP above it.

Attention to any strong up push above area 3030 points because it may turn this Key Date in a break away energy and develop a new important uptrend. For what I see from my studies, this scenario is less favorite, for this reason I am working with SHORT positions right now.

Thank you for your attention. If you have any question, please contact me.
